About Skanska

Skanska is one of the world's leading construction and project development companies. Established in the UK in 2000, Skanska UK has more than 3,300 local experts delivering projects across healthcare, real estate, defence, education, highways, rail and water.

What we do makes a clear contribution to society and the environment around us, whether we're building schools to provide inspiring spaces for learning or constructing roads that connect communities. It all contributes to Skanska's purpose, to build for a better society.

We benefit from the knowledge and foresight of the wider Skanska Group of more than 30,000 experts working to drive innovation in construction and sustainability – for greater efficiency, lower building running costs and with respect for the surrounding environment. The wide breadth of our services, and self-delivered specialist capability informs our programme management, enabling us to offer the most holistic and effective solutions

Healthcare in the UK

We're proud of the healthcare work that has become a core part of who we are. To date, we've delivered more than £2.7bn of NHS and private healthcare projects across the UK, bringing to life complex, purpose-built spaces where clinicians can do their best work and patients feel cared for.

Our hospital portfolio in the UK is varied and wide-ranging. From Barts Health's Royal London and Barts hospitals – two sites with hundreds of thousands of square metres and hundreds of beds and theatres – to Royal Papworth, Walsall Manor, Royal Derby and King's Mill Hospital, each project has its own story and purpose. Together, they show how we can work with our partners to create healthcare buildings that meet complex needs and serve communities for years to come.

When it comes to facilities management, we start thinking about it from the very beginning. This helps ensure assets stay reliable over time. Right now, we have expert facilities management teams on site at five NHS trusts, working around the clock to maintain healthcare infrastructure. Their focus is on keeping systems safe, reliable and operational so that care can continue without interruption.
